Fir Pillows.
There are so many convenient and plausible "perchances" connected with the way of making fir pillows just before Christmas in Maine that the best guess one can make can never be certain. The safest way to dispose of the case is to say that fir pillows bring good money in Maine just before Christmas, and Maine people and Boston people, and most people who live and have the money are glad enough to make purchases provided the pillows in question are suitable and fill the popular conception of what a fir pillow ought to be.
It may be dismissed from the argument at once that the pungent and balsamic odor, which the fir pillow emits, has anything to do with the situation.
One does not seek medicinal qualities in a pillow of any kind. Besides there is nothing medicinal in the smell of the pillow. Even fir balsam itself, which is the concentrated extract from the fir tree, is not a sovereign remedy for any human ailment. There is no known human ailment of throat, lungs, chest, thorax, or bladder, which fir balsam will relieve, that pine balsam, or turpentine, will not relieve better and sooner. Rest assured that 90 per cent of the help anybody can get from fir in any shape, comes as an assistance to human sentiment, and not from assistance derived from studying the United States Pharmacopoeia.

One discovers early in life that sentiment has more to do with affairs human than fact. Christmas, itself, as observed by the Christian nations, is the most sacred senti-ent known, a sentiment for which thousands have died and counted the dying a blessing, and for which millions stand ready to die.
If there had never been any Christmas, fir pillows would never have been thought of, this living and sleeping amongst boughs as a cure for incipient tuberculosis would never have come into vogue, and half the devotion and sacrifice would have been taken out of human life.

When you learn from the newspapers what many society women are making for the Christmas of this year, you may know that the Red Cross nurses have been around preaching their altruistic doctrine of living for the sake of helping others. No matter what the sacrifice may be, whether it be fir pillows or Alaskan seals, whether it be selling Red Cross seals, or soliciting full Christmas dinners for the poor—back of it all the spirit and impulse of Christmas are abroad, prompting mankind and womankind and all humankind to get away from self, and go forth and struggle for the good of others.

Fir pillows are good, because they reach forth for the purpose of comfort, and in consoling the ailing. To the city dweller they call up, through seeing and through pungent odors, memories of the Maine woods in childhood, when a wild hare crouched under nearly every fir in the forest, when the stars sparkled brightly all through the winter nights, and when God Himself seemed nearer to humanity than He does now to these mechanical and degenerate days.
If through the making or the buying of fir pillows, we can awaken the tender, or the human sentiments, which are harbored in every breast, by imagining the unreal and sentimental to be the only desirable object, short of Heaven—then life will be made more glad, and all mankind will become of one blood kin, by a chain of love that links the lowest to the highest.

New Get-Rich-Quick Schemers Use the Mails.
No department of the government comes into closer or more constant touch with the people than the post-office, and valuable though its services are to all, there is no class of men who use them to such advantage as the "get-rich-quick" schemers. The Postmaster General is quoted as saying that within a few years more than $100,000,000 has been taken fraudulently from the people through the machinery of the post-office, and the spread of the rural free delivery system.
This is an enormous amount, but the authorities declare that it is far below the actual sum and possibly represents less than one-half of the total amount lost—lost through the rascality of the few and the blind credulity of the many.
The whole nation would rise in indignant protest if our postal authorities attempted to emulate those of Russia, by reading the private correspondence of our citizens. The schemers know this, and take advantage of it. From county tax lists, business directories, and other sources they collect the names of prospective victims. This done, the rest is easy.—[The Christian Herald.]

It Grows Hair.
But Not After the Hair Root is Dead.
Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store will tell you that he sells a great many bottles of Parisian Sage because it gives satisfaction.
He guarantees it to grow hair, and stop falling and splitting hair, and itching scalp, or money back.
Parisian Sage will make hair grow if the hair root is not dead, it puts life and luster into dull and faded hair, and is the most delightful hair dressing in the world. Only 50 cents a large bottle.
"I have used Parisian Sage and it is the best hair grower and beautifier, dandruff cure, and scalp cleaner I have ever used." Mrs. H. L. Fulton, Oakley avenue, Lynchburg, Va., June 6, 1910.

ENDS WINTER'S TROUBLES.
To many, winter is a season of trouble.
The frost bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold

But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at

Harness Talk

$40, 45, 50, 55 and 60 and so on, but $45 and $50 is the price of my leaders and if you think of buying a double harness you better look them over before you purchase elsewhere. I don't think it will take much to convince you that I put in more work than any one else does for several dollars more money, and I don't use anything but No. 1 Oak Leather. I never buy Union Leather.

Snowshoe Girl.

"Now for some good old cross country tramp!"
And if she be a true devotee of the sport she does not wait for more than six inches of the soft thick winter-blanket to envelop the earth before she has donned her snowshoes and set off with her long swinging stride.
Watch her as she swings across the field. Does she lift one foot above the other so that the top just clears the lower snowshoe? Does she turn her toes in a bit just as an Indian walks so that the tails of her snowshoes do not look together? Does she move with a steady tramp, tramp, tramp, measuring off the same distance with every step? Then she is an expert snowshoer. Look at the erect poise, the easy, graceful swing of her body, is it not proof positive that the exercise is a good one?

Yes, yield you older people to the importunities of the young folk, grant them their snowshoes, and put all this capacity for enjoyment in their power. I have had the snowshoe fever, had it so badly that I have snowshoed morning, noon and night, so badly that I have even started off alone in the midst of a blizzard when it represented the first good snowshoeing snow that we had had for some time. And I never failed to come back rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and with a feeling of exhilaration that I could have attained in no other way.
But here is a word of advice. Do not attempt to go snowshoeing in your ordinary clothes. That is also an experience which I had, and I came home half a dozen times wet to the skin as a reward for my recklessness. That convinced me of the folly of such an endeavor. For the tails of one snowshoe are sure to throw the light snow about, with the fortunate results to the lightly clad snowshoer.

Wear a thick sweater, woolen gloves that push up under your sweater sleeves, a knitted stocking cap or one of the new Oxford toques, heavy lumbermen's stockings, waterproof moosehide bloomers and a short thick skirt. Then you are clad in a manner to bid defiance to the elements. If you fall, as fall you are sure to do, during the winter, there is not a crack anywhere where the snow can get in. You might roll over and over in it, and never feel even damp.

Thus attired you are ready, if you do not already know how, to take your first lesson in snowshoeing. Ten to one, however, you will not need to take any lesson at all. I have known girls who have practiced for ten minutes in the back yard to go to the snowshoes for hours without a moment's respite.

A splendid thing about snowshoeing is the fact that it does not depend as does skiing, upon level or slightly inclined ground for the greatest enjoyment. Sticks and stones, hills and gullies, railroad tracks and fences are all alike to the indomitable snowshoer. Who would be turned back after two hours of inspiring tramping across the fields accompanied by the steady crunch, crunch of the snowshoes upon the crust by a formidable looking fence? Mayhap the average snowshoer will prefer to be without spectators, but if she possesses a spark of the snowshoer's courage, she will approach that fence as Wellington approached Waterloo, determined to conquer or die. There will be a twirl, a squirming, perhaps a soft thud where she drops on all fours in the snow on the other side of the fence, a swift scramble to the feet, and then off again with the easy, swinging lunge.

Another exciting feature of a snowshoeing jaunt is the brisk run upon snowshoes which is sure to be taken during the afternoon or evening. Here is where the uninitiated are certain to meet defeat. Let one of them get into the first time. The hitherto easily managed snowshoes increase to an almost unbelievable magnitude. The top shoes fails to skim over the under one, the tails interlace and sooner or later there is a heavy downward plunge into the snow. The hero has fallen!

Coasting down hill on snowshoes is one of the greatest delights of snowshoers. To sit down upon the crossed tails of your snowshoes, to give a little jog for starting power, and presently to go flying swiftly down the slope with a hail of white flakes stretching out behind—that is fun indeed.

But the greatest joy of snowshoeing is the fact that it takes one out into the winter fields and woods. The life in the out-of-doors, the tramping in and out among the tree trunks and up and down the gullies are contributions par excellence to health and happiness. There is no girl so plump, so bright-eyed, so pink-cheeked, so sparkling with life to her finger tips as the snowshoer girl.

Snowshoeing by daylight is a pleasure. Snowshoeing by moonlight is bliss unalloyed. It is invested with a taint of romance that is impossible in the commonplace light of day. Familiar objects assume strange and curious shadowy shapes in the darkness. A distant dog becomes a strange and fearsome creature. Tumbles with their attendant mirth and merriment are frequent, for there are sure to be hosts of bumps and hollows easily seen in the daylight which are invisible in the night time. Then there is the glorious keen bitness of the night air, the diamond sparkle of the snow crystals underfoot and the merry countenance of the old moon winking at one from his sentinel post in the azure sky. Oh, such a night it is good to be alive, good to be young, better still to be on snowshoes.

Still there is no question that the snowshoer girl meets her ups and downs, especially when she is snowshoeing at night. Mayhap the snowshoer girl, and a party of which I was a member on one occasion. We were bound for a nearby resort, where a delicious supper was awaiting us. Two or three of the men of the party who were facetiously inclined led the others astray, at first for a joke, but the joke was turned upon its perpetrators, for ere long they were lost their bearings. There ensued three hours of fruitless wandering, during which we climbed barbed wire fences, trampled over stumps and stones and crossed railroad tracks, rattling over snowshoes and one of our companions, a process. The snow was wet and heavy. Finally we were forced to abandon our snowshoes and flounder along almost up to our knees in the damp snow.

I shall never forget the feeling of relief I had when we finally struck a road, and a motor car appeared. Conversation languished as the way to our destination for each mind was busy in anticipation of the delights of hot lobster stew, pickles and the host of good things that were awaiting us. But imagine our disappointment when we were in sight of the longed for haven to find that it was closed for the night, that the toothsome goodies over which we had smacked our lips might be ours only in anticipation. A tragic sequel, was it not, to our evening's misadventure. So we thought and it was a dejected band that turned their faces homeward.

Did it disgust us with snowshoeing? No, indeed. As well try to stem the current of the mighty Amazon as turn aside the love of a snowshoer for this sport. "Once a snowshoer, always a snowshoer"—that is their motto, a motto to which they adhere strictly.

But is it good for girls? Bless you yes. See this group of girls coming down the street. Pick out the lithest and most graceful of them, the one with the brightest eyes and rosiest cheeks and the widest bluish chestnut hair. Where did she get her glowing eyes, her effervescent good spirits? In the school room, the theatre, the gymnasium? No that is the snowshoer girl.

Wonderful Cures by Electricity

VITAL QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Education shapes our beliefs and prejudices and makes us cling to old-fashioned ideas and notions until new developments in science prove the error of our teaching and force new truths upon us. A few years ago you would laugh at any one claiming to be able to photograph an object through a six-inch plank, and yet today everyone knows this is easily accomplished by electricity. Scientific discovery is constantly upsetting old doctrines and enabling us to do hitherto impossible things.

In no way has this fact been more strikingly illustrated than by the results of the eminent physician's new methods of curing.

CHRONIC DISEASES

Many persons have been told by good and honest doctors that the chronic disease of which he makes a specialty could not be cured. Not long ago that was true, but it is not true today.

No invalid should give up hope until they have had a consultation with the eminent physician at Best's Hotel.

Take no one's word except that of a cured patient. Let no prejudice stand in the way of reason, but whatever your complaint may be it will be to your interest to consult him and his fees are much less than any other first-class specialist in the state.

If it can be cured by his treatment he will tell you so, and explain to you fully the kind of treatment your case requires, how it is administered, how it acts on the diseased parts, and how the cure is accomplished. Also how long you will be treated, and how much it will cost you, he does not do cheap work, but the price is exceedingly low for the kind of service you receive.

He will show you hundreds of testimonials from prominent and responsible people who will attest the great efficacy of his improved scientific methods.

He is one of the most successful specialists of the day in all Chronic and Long Standing Diseases; Catarrh, Throat, Bronchitis, Consumption in the first stages.

If you have weak lungs remember catarrh leads to consumption.

He cures not only consumption in its first stages but other chronic diseases.

Blood Diseases—Scrofula, all kinds of Tumors, Diseases of the stomach and Digestive Tract.

Those fearful Nervous Diseases of men and women, no matter from what cause arising, Paralytic, Hysteria, Prostration, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Rheumatism.

Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, Male Troubles, Weakness (no matter from what cause).

Diseases of Women—Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Painful or Suppressed Menstruation.

Women who are racked with pain in the pelvis, side, back or head, or suffering from nervousness and many troubles peculiar to their sex can find speedy relief and permanent cure without examination.

Consult him without delay. Consultation free, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week. Many who cannot call in person are taking advantage of the treatment at home. Include stamp for self examining symptom blank and learn if your case is curable, free.

Anthem, Make a joyful noise unto the Lord. Anthem, Make a joyful noise unto the Lord.

Recitation, December. Edith Millett Welcome. Fourteen children from both schools hymn, Hark the herald angels sing.

The Old Year and the New.

Written for the Advertiser.

Ah! The Old Year it is dying,
And its hours are passing so fast,
But the New Year it is crying,
"I am coming, I am near."

Monks not for the past, press forward, Ever hoping, trusting, praying, Shouting loud, "The victory's mine."

Dear Old Year, thou art a treasure
With thee thou hast brought much pleasure
With thee thou brought many a pain.

We know not what the New Year brings us,
No, nor would we if we could,
We can only hope for blessings,
For we know that God is good.

Good bye Old Year! Welcome New Year!
Each in turn we hold most dear;
Yet are we have time to love thee,
Thou dost swiftly disappear.

WEST PARIS.

Samuel Eugene Hammond. Death which is always being expected some time is always a surprise and a shock to the nervous system of humanity whenever it does come, and so it was in our latest case, that of the passing away of the well known and respected citizen, Samuel Eugene Hammond, who died late Friday night, Dec. 23. Mr. Hammond has been in poor health for several years but especially the last six or eight months but after each bad spell would rally and be able to work some. This fall he helped at apple packing some. Early in November he and Mrs. Hammond broke up housekeeping and went to George Jackson's on High street to work for him through the winter, planning to come back to their home in the village in the spring. A week or more before his death he had another bad attack which was very severe but he began to rally again and was sitting up some. Friday all day and until he retired he felt very comfortable and cheerful. About midnight it was discovered that he had passed away in his sleep without any one's knowledge. Mr. Hammond was a kind, obliging neighbor and friend, and generous beyond his means. He was born Jan. 8, 1850, in Peru and his parents were Samuel and Ann (Cushman) Hammond. His first wife was Flora A. Swift to whom he was married about the year '71 and who died April 9, 1877, leaving one little girl, Bertha A., now the wife of Jerry H. Cole of West Paris. In November of the same year he married Lillian I. Noyes of Sumner. To them were given three children, Alphonso B. Hammond, who lives in Vermont; Agnes A., wife of John E. Brock of this place, and R. Merton Hammond, an electric car conductor in Boston. Besides these he has two grandchildren, one, little Myrtle Brock, who lives here, dearly loved her grandfather as he did her. Mr. Hammond was one of a family of ten children. Of those who survive him are William G. Hammond of Paris and Alma B., wife of Roscoe Tracy of West Paris. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church, Monday at 2 p. m. Rev. D. R. Ford gave well chosen remarks. A mixed quartet sang two favorite hymns, "Meet Me There" and "We Never Say Goodbye in Heaven." The flowers were very beautiful. A pillow with "Hush" and another with "Father," a beautiful large basket with "Husband" and "Grandpa" and roses, narcissus and pinks, loose flowers, were from the family; bouquets of pinks from Horatio B. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ames; a holly wreath from friends. Interment took place in the West Paris cemetery. The family have the sympathy of the community.

Albert J. Ricker is "under the weather," and not able to work. Rev. J. W. Smith recently visited his grandson, Karl Hayes, at J. A. Emmons'. Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Morton spent Christmas with Mr. Morton's mother in South Paris. The next W. C. T. U. meeting will meet with Mrs. Roscoe Tuell, Thursday afternoon, Jan. 5. Mrs. E. R. Davis entertained her sister and husband from Lewiston and other relatives, for Christmas dinner. Bertha Emmons came home from Portland last week, and is having a week or two vacation with her parents. Wirt McKenney from Burdett's Business College in Boston, and Earl C. Adams of Portland, are home for the holiday vacation. Experienced operators wanted in the stitching room of B. F. Spinney & Co., Norway, also inexperienced hands for all parts of the work in the room. These will be taught by a competent instructor. Write or call on Miss Smith. 52-1

Several Christmas post card showers were participated in here last Saturday. Mrs. Emily L. Emmons received nearly fifty, which delighted her immensely. Another shower was sent to Mrs. Cora D. Lurvey, who is in the Hebron Sanatorium; also a beautiful post card box from her many friends. Other showers were sent to Mrs. Elsie Robinson, also in the Hebron Sanatorium, and Mrs. J. W. Andrews in South Woodstock. A week or more ago, Mrs. Alvina Dennen was the recipient of a big birthday post card shower.

WEST SUMMER.

Chandler and wife were at K. P. Bowker's, Tuesday. Those with fast horses are having great fun on the pond. The ice is very thick and clear. A. Pales and wife of Livermore Falls were at her father's, F. Farrar's, a few days during Christmas. Mrs. Abbie Bates returned to her home last week after making an extended visit at Paris and Welchville among relatives and friends. There was a large Christmas gathering and trees well laden with presents for the little folks and many of the adults at the Baptist church, Monday evening. Prayer by Rev. G. W. F. Hill; music by the choir, recitations and the distribution of presents.

FREYBURG CENTER.

Mrs. J. E. Hutchins is much improved from her recent illness. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Goodridge are at Fred Holt's for the winter. Dorothy Haley has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Glee, at East Brownfield. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eastman spent Christmas at their old home at Fish Street. Mrs. E. C. Buzzell has been staying for a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andrews at North Freyburg. Walter Smith has been very sick for the past week. He has been cared for by his sister, Mrs. Cora Harriman, of Milne, N. H. The children had their Christmas tree the last day of school with recitations, etc., which were all very well performed by so young pupils. Albion Barker spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barker. His sister Sybil will accompany him to Farmington, where he is employed, for a visit.
